Dunk-a-Cop for Special Olympics!
Midway
All “dunkees” will be CMUPD uniformed officers who will, naturally, be in uniform when they hit the water! All proceeds from the event will go to Special Olympics of Pennsylvania (SOPA). The CMUPD has been involved with SOPA for three years with our police officers, security officers, dispatchers and families volunteering for a number of SOPA activities. Most significantly, we have participated in the annual Pittsburgh Polar Plunge which, through the efforts of many local police departments and crazy people, raises a huge amount of money annually for Special Olympic activities. Last year, more than $430,000 was raised at the December 14th event raised. The CMUPD, since becoming involved, has raised more than $10,000 through the efforts of its members and the generosity of the CMU community. Our members also volunteer for a number of the actual competition events that are held locally.

Dates and times coming soon!

12-12:45 pm  INI 25th Keynote "Connected. How networks are transforming everything" Hooman Radfar (INI, ’04)
The Information Networking Institute (INI) was founded in 1989 as the nation’s first interdisciplinary program dedicated to information networking. Since then, we have witnessed an explosion in the applications of networks. From the inception of the World Wide Web in 1991 to the creation of "Thefacebook" in 2004, networks have transformed the way we connect and share. In this talk, Radfar will discuss trends in networks, computing, and the tectonic shifts that lie ahead as we race toward the singularity. Hooman Radfar is an entrepreneur, business advisor and investor with expertise in social media platforms, big data and online marketing. He is a partner alongside the founders of Uber and Foursquare at Expa, a startup incubator in San Francisco. He is also the director of 10e9, a consulting company he founded in June 2013 and co-founder and chairman of AddThis, formerly Clearspring Technologies, whose widget became the largest content-sharing tool on the Web. He and Clearspring co-founder Austin Fath, also an INI alumnus, were named among BusinessWeek Tech’s Best Entrepreneurs, Top 30 Under 30 in America.

1:30-2:30 pm
Face-ism: How First Impressions From Faces Bias Our Choices
Dr. Christopher Olivola, Assistant Professor of Marketing; Our success, as individuals and societies, depends on our ability to make wise social decisions about important interpersonal matters, such as the leaders we elect and the individuals we choose to trust. Nevertheless, human judgment and decision making are often biased by superficial cues and, consequently, so too are these important social decisions. In this talk, Dr. Olivola will discuss research showing that people spontaneously draw inferences about the characteristics of others (their competence, their trustworthiness, etc.) from their facial appearances. He'll present evidence that these face-based social attributions can have important consequences, such as shaping the outcomes of elections and criminal trials. Visit www.tepper.cmu.edu/alumnireunion2015 for more information.

US Fiscal Issues: Problems and Solutions
